contemplated action of the County Commissioners in altering the plans of the new courthouse now nearing completion, so as to involve an additional expense of $35,000. The original plans and contracts involved an outlay of over $265,000. The proposed changes in interior finishing would run the amount to over $300,000. There have been numerous rumors of a big steal being worked, and LaPorte citizens now feel certain of it. A remonstrance was got up by Mayor Scott, and an indignation meeting held at his office this morning. The commissioners had announced a special session and were expected to be present, but failed to show up. Hon. W. B. Hutchinson of Michigan City, Mayor E. H. Scott, H. D. Morrison, Ellis Michael, Theodore Lorig and M. Rumely, the heaviest taxpayers in the county, were appointed as a committee to wait on the commissioners and argue against the change. The alterations consist of the substitution of marble for iron stairways and bronze ornaments instead of iron. Charles A. Moses, of Chicago, is the contractor, and H. A. Tolan, of Fort Wayne, the architect.

KNOCKED OUT IN FOUR ROUNDS.

"Kid" Reed, of Anderson, Effectually Settles

"Kid" Riley, of Chicago.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, Ind., June 29 .- A hundred sports outwitted Sheriff Van Dyke and his deputies last night, succeeding in pulling off a four-round finish fight between "Kid" Reed, of this city, and "Kid" Riley, of Chicago, who is matched to fight "The Spider." The event has been on for some time, for a purse of $100 and and the gate receipts, which amounted to $150. The officers got wind of the event and made frantic efforts to locate the pugilists west of the city, but the principals and the followers had gone to Middleton, ten miles south and just across the county line. Reed weighed in at 116 and Riley at 118 pounds. It was just a quarter of 2 o'clock when the principals stepped in the ring. Ed Smith, of Muncie, and Jack Conley, of Indianapolis, were behind Reed, while Charlie Crawford, of Chicago, and J. O'Donnell, of this city, backed the Chicago boy. The first round resulted about even, and the second was decidedly in Riley's favor. In the third Reed warmed up and fought the Chicago boy all over the ring. In the fourth round Reed led with his left and caught Riley under the jaw with a territic right-hander, which knocked him out. He fell like a log. and was motionless for more than thirty sec-

THE MILITIA AND PRIZE FIGHTS. Terre Haute Much Agitated for Fear She Will Lose the Encampment.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 29.-The militiamen and members of Governor Matthewa's staff expected certainly to hear this morning from the powers that be in regard to the location of the annual encampment. The delay in issuing the call, it is thought, will cause a postponement from the usual time, the latter part of July. Governor Matthews will be here to-morrow, when it hoped he will render his decision. He has said that he would not consent to holding the encampment at Roby: that it would be a disgrace to the State. There is an influence near to him, however, that is favorable to the Roby idea, and it is believed here that this same influence is for Indianapolis as second choice. The Gazette this evening printed the following: Governor Matthews has announced already that the militia encampment would be held at Terre Haute. Ordinarily this would have justifled the brigade c'licers in issuing the routine orders for the camp, but no order was issued. About a week ago Adjutant-general Robbins wrote to Terre Haute, stating that it would perhaps be best for Terre Haute to wait until next year for the camp; that he was considering an offer from Roby. Several officers, he stated, had assured him that the attendance would be larger at Roby than at Terre Haute, and he thought the camp ought to go to Roby. The Roby people made advances for the camp several weeks ago, but Governor Matthews would not give the offer a moment's consideration. Terre Hante is quite a sporting center, and if Adjutant-general Robbins really believes a prize fight would bring a larger numher or the troops to camp, perhaps one could be arranged here. But if the not ordered attractions will have to be doubled. The men who compose the legion must have some notice to arrange for attendance in camp. They canwith any great success. But if prize tights, bievele races, duels with stuffed clubs, chicken fights, etc., could be arranged for each day it is very probable that about half the population, as well as the active militia of the State, would be

They have heretofore shipped them here from Ohio and other points. This addition to the factory will give employment to a number of workmen. and will enable the factory to fill orders with more rapidity than has been the case. The factory will not close down at all, but will continue to run night and day in the effort to keep all orders filled.

While the girl was gone after the water she left the outer door unlocked, and they made their escape out the front way. The alarm was immediately given, but the men escaped in the woods. Attorney Pigg left a note to the sheriff stating that he would be back to court.

Bitter Fight Against Gladstone's Attempt to Silence Obstructionists.

The Premier's Resolution Debated All Last Night and Until 4 O'Clock This Morning -Closure Motion Frowned Down.

ALL NIGHT SESSION.

Gladstone's Rule to Limit Debate Strongly Opposed in the Commons, LONDON, June 29.-In the House of Commons, to-day, Mr. Gladstone moved the adoption of the resolution, the terms of which were read in the House yesterday, providing for the quicker passage of the Irish government act (the home-rule bill.) In speaking to his motion Mr. Gladstone said that the government would not feel justified in sanctioning any intermission in the business of the House by proroguing or adjourning Parliament until the home-role bili was passed and supplies voted. The resolution was absolutely necessary. It was as considerate as he could possibly contrive. Without resorting to some method of closure it would take more than twelve months to pass the bill in committee of the whole. The character of the amendments was such that if they were accepted they would destroy the bill. The government had other important measures which he hoped the House would have time to deal with. The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, the leader of the opposition in the House, here asked: "How can proposals curtailing the liberty of discussion of the home-rule bill be a necessity when the Prime Minister in the same breath states that there is plenty of time to settle other questions?" Continuing, Mr. Balfour said it was party expediency and not parliamentary necessity that inspired the resolution. Nothing but the whole energies of Parliament during the whole session were adequate to the home-rule bill. The government wished to evade discussion on a new Constitution affecting the United Kingdom. Mr. Balfour denied that there was a parallel between the closure resolutions of the Conservatives of 1887 and the present resolutions. The crimes bill of 1887 was urgent, while the home-rule bill was not. He defended the amendments to the bill, saying that though they were numerous none of them was obstructive. T. W. Russell, champion of the men of Ulster, moved the rejection of the resolution. Joseph Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal Unionists, spoke at length against the government's plan for curtailing the debate in the committee stage. The object of the resolution, he said, was virtually to gag the chief contracting party to the union. Nothing more monstrous had ever been proposed in the House

Mr. Chaplain, president of the Board of Agriculture under the last Salisbury administration, criticized the Ministers for their refusal to debate the resolution, and eventually moved that, as a protest against the conduct of the Ministry, an adjournment be taken. Mr. Chaplain's motion was defeated by a vote of 308 to 279. Mr. Russell's motion to amend practically so as to reject was defeated by a vote of 306 to 279. Several more motions to adjourn were defeated, the debate in the meantime being

Thomas Sexton, anti-Parnellite, for North Kerry, accused the opposition of trying to force an all-night sitting upon the House, and then trying to back out. At 3:30 o'clock this (Friday) morning. Conybeare moved the closure. The Speaker refused flatly to put the question, and the debate on the original resolution was resumed. After some further discussion Mr. Balfour agreed to conclude the offering of amendments at 7 o'clock Friday evening, and Sir William Harcourt consented to adjourn the House. The members arose a few minutes after 4 o'clock A. M. It is calculated on the government side that the session will be adjourned the first week of September, and that the autumn session will be called to begin about the last of Octo-

THE KAISER'S VICTORY.

Ten Majority for the Army Bill, with Thirteen Doubtful Votes to Draw From. BERLIN, June 29. - Reports received from Kilsingen, Schweinfurt and Lohen complete the returns from all 397 electoral constituencies of the empire. The exact numerical relations of the parties in case of a vote on the army bill are, nevertheless, still somewhat in doubt, as several candidates, who acknowledge allegiance to the larger parties or groups in other matters, have reserved decision concerning the military demands of the government. The attitude of the Guelphs and Independent Clericals towards the clerical party, of the Anti-Semites and some Agrarians toward the Conservative party, and of the Radical Unionists toward the Richterist and National Liberal parties, must remain more or less in doubt for several days. The editor of the Reichsanzeiger and officials at the chancellerie gave the assurance yesterday that until after the corrections of the returns and the opening of the Reichstag, the relative strength of the parties could not be exactly determined. The situation has been complicated by the rejection of the returns in five constituencies where irregularities vitiated the elections. One of these constituencies is in Jerichow, in which Count Herbert Bismarck was supposed to have been elected. If these constituencies be allowed to the parties entitled to them according to the face of the returns the list of 397 Deputies is divided generally thus among the parties: Clericals, 82; Social Democrats, 45; Conservatives, 77; Free Conservatives, 25; National Liberals, 52; Guelphs, 8; Aleatians, 12; Anti-Semites, 17; Richter Radicals, 23; Radical Unionists, 12; Poles, 19; Independent Clericals, 11; Bavarians' Peasant League, 2; South German Democrate, 11; Danes, 1. Of these 397 Depnties 199 are counted for the army bill and France at War with Siam, LONDON, June 29.-A dispatch to the Times from Bangkok, the capital of Siam. says that the French gunboat Lutin has anchored in the river opposite the center of Bangkok and has made preparations to fire upon the city. The topmasts of the gunboat have been struck and guns have been mounted in the fighting tops. The French admiral, in his flag-ship, is expected to arrive in Siamese waters soon from Saigon. Siam, the dispatch adds, though most anxious to maintain friendship by the French, is quietly determined to resist aggression, and is preparing herself for any contingency that may arise, The defenses of the country will prove stronger than expected. Three ships have been sunk at the entrance of the Meinam river, on whick Bangkok is situated, about twenty miles from its mouth. This reduces the channel to the narrowest limits possible for use, and the government is ready at a moment's notice to complete the block to prevent the ingress and egress of vessels.

[Concluded from First Page.] movement in the South, said to-day that he thought the Populists were not now making any progress in the country, and that the teachings of those engaged in the agitation would not have any influence in shaping the policy of the Democratio party. In reply to the question "What do you think of the present situation as to silver?" Mr. Herbert said: "I think that the stoppage of the coinage of silver in India is the greatest blow that has been given to the Sherman law, and to the free coinage of silver. The free coinage of silver in India has been pointed to as an object lesson by the advocates of free coinage in this country. For ten years men in Congress have drawn one lesson and another from India, looking at it from different points of view. It has been urged upon the farmers that India had an advantage over the United States in a higher price for wheat, because the currency in India was all silver, ignoring the fact that while they might get more for wheat in their own currency the price in gold was no greater, and the commodities they bought with the money they got for their wheat had to be paid for on a gold basis, and still further overlooking the loss through high exchange. Another argument oftrepeated still in support of free coinage in this country is that the reason for the heavy cost of exchange between India and England was that it was kept up by England for the benefit of English merchants, that they might sap the very life out of India. Now the coinage of silver there is voluntarily stopped with the consent of India, and it tumbles over both these arguments-that the silver currency was a benefit to the farmers of India, and that the exchange was on a system for the benefit of England."

VIEWS OF SENATOR TELLER.

He Does Not Think the Action of India Should Cause Great Alarm. DENVER, Col., June 29 .- Senator Henry M. Teller this morning said:

The action of the government of India ought not to have depressed silver to the extent that it seems to have done, and I think that the fall in silver has resulted largely from a misapprehen-sion on the part of the people of the East as to what action the Indian government will take. I noticed in the papers of Tuesday that Mr. Leech and Mr. Cannon are reported as saying that India will cease to take silver. The fact is if the mints are closed to private coinage it is the intention of the Indian government to purchase silver and coin it on account of the government in the same manner, practically, as we coined under the Bland act; and there is no reason to suppose India will not take as much silver in the next year as it took in the last. Many friends of silver believe that that will enable the Indian Council to sell its council bills at a stipulated and fixed price and thus prevent the fluctuation of silver. Now, if council bills are to be sold, as the press representatives say the scheme is, at 1 shilling and 4 pence per rupee, which is more than they have been selling at heretofore for some time, it ought to make silver not only more stable but higher than it has been for the last ten days. There is no possibility of the Indian government adopting the gold standard with gold as the circulating medium. It is impossible for it to do that. The British government twice tried that and it has failed. The statement made in the public press that they propose to give a gold standard without a gold currency means that they propose to take the rupees on a gold basis as to its value considered as builion. In other words, they would take the rupee instead of at 47 cents, its mint value, at 32 cents, which would be about its gold value. I do not consider the action of the Indian government as alarming as most people seem to think Senator Jones's Predictions.

NEW-YORK, June 29 .- Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, this evening said: I doubt very much if the Sherman act can be repealed at the extra session of Congress. It certainly can't be wiped out, in my judgment, unless a substitute satisfactory to the advocates of free coinage is provided. Should Congress actually succeed in effecting the repeal without granting such substitute there will surely be a breaking away from the old parties of the men who believe that free coinage of silver is the best method of solving the financial problem. A silver party will be formed, and it will prove so powerful and wield such an influence that to ignore it will be fatal to any man who desires political preference. Want the Sherman Law Retained.

Silver Will Go Lower, One M. P. Predicting that It Will Fall to 20d, London, June 29.—Several members of Parliament who speak with authority on money questions were interviewed, this evening, concerning the probable effect of India's new attitude towards silver. Sir William Houldsworth, the moving spirit in the Bimetallic League, said that India's action in closing her mints to the free coinage of silver would steady exchange, and thus relieve of much difficulty the trade between Lancashire and the Indian ports. On the other hand Lancashire trade with countries having the silver standard would be injured seriously. The position of India would eventually become so difficult that she would be obliged to adopt bimetallism. In reply to a question concerning the immediate future of the bullion market Sir. William said: "India's action will produce a great tightness of gold, which will cause a further fall of allver, but to what extent

William Cane, who has traveled much in India and has written a book concerning the country and its people, said he was inclined to think the direct effect of the Indian government's action would be small in India, as prices there were fixed mostly by custom. Unless a panie should come, the majority of the natives would never know there had been a change. Samuel Smith, who is regarded as an authority in most Indian affairs, said that the price of silver probably would drop to 20 pence per ounce.

Samuel Montague, head of the firm of Samuel Montague & Co., foreign bankers, is more optimistic than Mr. Smith. He thinks silver will hardly fall below 30 pence. He could not see how it was possible for the Indian government to do otherwise than it had done. The silver market would recover slowly and touch a considerably higher point than the one at which it now stood. Sir Richard Temple, ex-Governor of Bombay, said that the Indian plan was all wrong economically. The gold standard ought to have been introduced in india twenty-five years ago. However, the presept experiment would prove barmless. Dadabhai Naoroji, the only Hindoo in the House of Commons, said that the Indian government had acted merely for the interest of the Anglo-Indian salaried officials. and had unloaded further burdens upon the native taxpayer.

Do Not Expect Prices to Tumble. LONDON, June 29.-Further inquiries were made in the House of Commons towhen it tells against him, and that when | day regarding the effects of the action of | ness, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements the Indian government in stopping the free coinage of silver. In response Mr. G. E. Russell, Parliamentary Secretary of the Indian Office, said that neither the government of India nor the Herschell committee expected prices in India to be materially altered under the new currency arrangements.

Mr. Gladstone said that the government had the impression that there was no likelibood of any serious fall in the value of FIRST ANNUAL CONCERT

Maw York Independent. The Pope's decision looks both ways. Its force is in its application, and that is in the hand of Satolli and the friends of progress. It is not the way of the Catholie Church to retract anything formally, but only to relieve the emphasis of an ontworn rule, and cease to enforce it. If in doubt whether you are using butter or oleomargerine, boil a tablespoonful of each. The butter will foam without much noise; the oleomargerine, on the contrary. will sputter and hiss. as does melted lard, but it will not foam so decidedly. Butter that keeps unusually well in a warm room in summer without melting very much is to be suspected.
